News Digest.

The Republicans of New Hampshire achieved a glorious victory at their State election, on Tuesday. GOODWIN is re-elected Governor, by from 12,000 to 15,000 majority, and the Legislature stands—Republicans 171; Democrats 80.

The place of holding the Democratic National Convention will probably be changed from Charleston, S. C., to Baltimore, Md. Reason—the high prices fixed upon by the hotel keepers, &c.

From Madison we learn that a bill to prescribe and limit the rate of interest passed the Senate yesterday. This bill, we believe, reduces the legal rate of interest from twelve to seven per cent.

We have accounts of destructive fires at La Crosse, Wis., Bellows Falls, Vt ,Middletown, N. J., and Mobile, Ala., involving a loss of some $335,000 worth of property.

In the election for members of the Constitutional Convention in Nebraska, the Republicans succeeded in electing a majority.

A series of extraordinary larcenies have lately been traced to a young lady of fashion and position in New Orleans. She was stopping with her relatives, people of the first respectability, at one of the large hotels; and while making a purchase in a fancy store, one day, she was seen by the clerk to steal a valuable portemonnaie, and put it in her pocket. The clerk, knowing the position of the young lady, was so much astonished that he allowed her to depart. The proprietor of another store, however, determined not to let the matter rest. He sent a clerk with a bill to the young lady for the value of the article she had taken. She repudiated the bill, and feigned the greatest indignation. The bill was then taken to a gentleman relative of the young lady, who was informed of the nature of the case. He at once visited the fair culprit in her room, when she sobbed and confessed; told all the stores she had stolen from, and restored the articles stolen, which were, with all due apology by the humiliated relatives, returned to their various owners.

A Street Marriage.—A loving couple in Memphis, Tenn., were last week married under the following singular circumstances: They were taking a carriage ride in one of the principal streets in that city, when they chanced to meet a Judge Hill, who was riding leisurely along upon a favorite donkey. They at once accosted him, and requested him to unite them in the holy bonds of wedlock. He acceded to the proposition, and, without dismounting, performed the ceremony, making the occupants of the vehicle one, and having for witnesses the mule and two or three persons who were passing at the time. The animal bestrode by the honorable Judge on the occasion was not the only donkey engaged in the scrape.

A Brute.—We hear from Elkhorn, Walworth county, that a man by the name of Katchaw, residing about three miles North of that village, has been guilty of maltreating a young girl who has been living with him for some time past, having been bound out to him by the poor masters. We did not obtain the particulars, but hear that her feet were frozen so badly last winter, in consequence of being kept out of doors too thinly clad, that both feet will have to be amputated. There was considerable excitement in the village on Monday, and some were for lynching him. He has been arrested.

Street Railroads in Cincinnati.—The street Railroads in Cincinnati paid to the city in the month of February a per capita tax on the number of passengers carried of $2,474 42. The total revenue to the city from the three city railroads chartered, has amounted since the commencement of their operations to $9,660, a very snug sum saved to the tax-payers, and one that will constantly increase.

The following is presumed to be a tolerably complete alphabetical list of the Democratic candidates for the Presidency:

Bright Jesse D., Ind.	Houston Sam., Texas.
Breckinridge J. C., Ky.	Johnston Andrew, Tenn.
Bayard J. A., Delaware.	Lane Jos. H., Oregon.
Boot, A. G., Miss.	Pierce Franklin, N. H.
Cobb Howell, Georgia.	Reeston R. F., N. J.
Davis Jefferson, Miss.	Stephens A. H., Ga.
Dickinson D. S., N. Y.	Slidell John, La.
Douglas Stephen A., Ill.	Seymour Horatio, N. Y.
Guthrie James, Ky.	Wise Henry A., Va.
Hunter R. M. T., Va.	Weed John E., N. Y.

The work of organization has commenced among the Republicans of Portage City. A meeting on Thursday evening last, at the Record office, was well attended, and participated in by several who have heretofore been members of the Democratic party. Brief speeches were made by Hon. Chas. Billings, Sweet, and D. S Curtis, of Madison.

Loss of Life and Property at Green Bay.—M. J. Stephenson writes from Menomonee River, under the date of March 5th, informing the Chicago Press that on the 3d inst. a severe gale was experienced, during which two men and two pair of horses were blown out on the bay on the ice and lost. No assistance whatever could be rendered them, owing to the severity of the gale.

It is now supposed that the steamer Hunperian struck about midnight, when all but the watch were in their berths, in which case probably they were carried down with the vessel. A corps of divers have arrived at the wreck, and their investigations will determine the suspense entertained as to the whereabouts of the loot.

A farmer named Cady was brutally pounded into insensibility by parties unknown, and robbed of his money, in New Lisbon, on Saturday last.

A Republican paper called the Menomonee Lumberman is about to be started in Dunnville, Dunn county.

There have a cast iron cauldron at Oxford almost large enough to dissolve the Union in.

Carl Schurz.—This gentleman lectured last week in Terre Haute, on the subject of "France since 1848." He treated it with the hand of a master. Schurz is distinguished for his learning and originality, and is unquestionably one of the ablest thinkers and speakers in the country. Cannot our Mercantile Library Association give us a lecture from him before the close of the present season?—Ter. Commercial.

Musical Item.—The Cooper Opera Troupe are at the Boston Museum. The critic of Dwight's Journal of Music seems disposed to be severe on Annie Milner's rendition of Amina, characterizing her voice as "hard and false in the upper tones," and dealing pretty candidly with Mr. Cooke, the baritone. Mr. Rudolphsen has left them and is now with Madame Anna Bishop, while Mr. Brookhouse Bowler, (tenor) who is still with the Cooper's, receives his share of the critic's censure. At Philadelphia they made a very favorable impression, and also at Baltimore, but it seems that from some cause or other, the Bostonians do not like Miss Milner altogether, though her acting is highly spoken of.

It is rumored that Charles Heidsick, the celebrated dealer in champagne, who came to this country a few weeks ago, ostensibly to hunt on the Western prairies, had in fact marked his game before he crossed the ocean, and that the object of his trip was to claim the hand of a fair lady whose acquaintance he had made in Paris. The New York upper ten are said to be in a flutter of excitement over what is expected to be the event of the season.

Rights of Inventors.—Yesterday a number of the hardware dealers in this city were visited by a gentleman in quest of screws of a certain description, of English manufacture. In many of the houses he bought parcels of the English-made screws paid for them, and, in presence of the salesmen or members of the firms, tied them with red tape, and sealed the receipted bills thereto, and ordered them to be sent to the office of "Charles M. Keller, counselor in patent causes," in Nassau street. Of course such a transaction excited considerable inquiry, the result of which, so far as could be ascertained, is as follows: The gimlet pointed screw is an American invention, and was patented in the United States and in England; the English patent having been disposed of to manufacturers there, whose goods are imported into this country, and sold by our merchants, thus invading the rights of the owners of the American patent. In this way, it appears, every package sold renders the merchant making the sale liable to the owners of the American patent, as in the great India Rubber case of Day and others, in which the Supreme Court of the United States decided, in every case of violation, in favor of the American patent. Present appearances indicate that an exciting suit is on the tapis, which is likely to involve quite a number of our largest hardware houses, who have sold screws to the gentleman who tied his parcels with red tape and sealed the bills thereto, at a liberal discount for cash.—New York Tribune.

Extensive Larceny from the U. S. Express Company—The Thief Arrested and Money Recovered.—On Monday last, the office of the U. S. Express Company at Washington, Tazewell county, Ill., was robbed of a package containing $2,500 in money. The money had been delivered to the company's agent, D. S. Mills, at that place, in two packages. One package of $1,500 was to be forwarded to Atlanta, Ill., and the other, of $1,000, to Pekin, Ill. Mr. Mills placed the money in his desk, which he carefully locked, and for a few moments left the office. A person was in the office when he went out, whom he must have known, and in whose honesty he must have had confidence; but upon his return this person was gone. The desk had been broken open and the money abstracted.

The village of Washington is on the Peoria and Oquawka extension railway, about 12 miles east of Peoria. There is no telegraph office there; but Mr. Mills, finding the thief had escaped, hastened a messenger to Peoria to inform the express agent there. The agent of the latter place sent a description of the thief, which Mr. Mills furnished him, to all points which could be reached by telegraph. The lightning messenger preceded the thief to Pekin, on the Illinois river, where the latter arrived Tuesday and was arrested. All the money was found in his possession, except $20, which he had used for expenses on his journey.

Horrible Indeed.—Last evening, at half past seven o'clock, one of the most fiendish murders was committed that ever outraged the feelings of humanity. A social party was assembled at one of the apartments in No. 71 East Broadway, visiting the family who reside there. Among the number was a Patrick McHugh, his wife Bridget, and their two children. The evening appeared to be passing pleasantly with them. They were talking and amusing themselves together, when suddenly Patrick said to his wife, "Won't you give me some beer?" to which she replied, "Why no, Patrick; I never give you anything now." As she spoke this, he placed his arm around her neck, as if to embrace her, but in his hand was an open razor, with which he suddenly cut her throat. The stroke was given with so much power as to cut away even a part of the bone (the third vertebræ.) She fell and died without the utterance of a word.—Cin. Com.

A writer referring to the vastness of the Mississippi river, says: "It extends 2,100 miles from the frozen regions of the sunny south, and with the Missouri river is 4,500 miles in length. It would reach from New York across the Atlantic ocean, or from France to Turkey and the Caspian sea. Its average depth is fifty feet, and its width half a mile. The floods are more than a month traveling from its source to its delta. The trappers can exchange the furs of animals caught by them on the upper Mississippi for the tropical fruits gathered on the banks below. The total value of steamers afloat on the river and its tributaries is more than $60,000,000, numbering 1,600 boats, with more than twice the steamboat tonnage of England. It drains an area of 1,200,000 square miles, and washes the shores of twelve powerful States. In one single reservoir at Lake Pepin, between Wisconsin and Minnesota, 3,500 miles from the sea, the navies of the world might safely ride at anchor.

Opposition to the Newsboys.—Yesterday on the hydrant, at the corner of State and Randolph streets, from 9 o'clock until three, "might have been seen" a gentleman standing with an armful of that morning's Democrat, exclaiming, "Here, gentlemen! is your Daily Democrat, with the latest news from all parts of the world, and particularly from the Tenth Ward! Walk up and buy, gentlemen—I'm a disappointed Democrat!"—His sales were quite rapid, and were still more so when it was understood that this gentleman had made a bet that Walter S. Gurnee would be elected Mayor, and that to stand on this corner and peddle opposition papers, was the penalty of the wager.—Chicago Democrat.

Future of the American Tea Trade.—Not many years hence we shall have a railroad to the Pacific, and then the arrivals of cargoes of teas in New York will be as uncommon as they now are in Boston. The West is now, and will continue to be, the great consumers of teas; and when they can be transported by rail from California, what is saved in interest and quality, will more than compensate for the cheaper conveyance by water. The saving in insurance and interest alone, apart from the fact that the teas will retain the richness of their flavor much better when transported by land, will go far toward settling the question of economy both with the merchant and consumer.—Commercial Bulletin.

Official Corruption in Dubuque.—The "banner Democratic County of Iowa," Dubuque, exhibits a disreputable condition in its official management. The Grand Jury, after seventeen days session, found seven single and six double indictments against the managers of the poor house and the county officers. A bill for lewdness was found against the County Physician, and the Times thinks he will be inside of the stone walls at Fort Madison in a short time.

A country apothecary being out for a day's shooting, took his errand boy to carry his game-bag. Entering a field of turnips, the dog pointed, and the boy, enjoyed at the prospect of his master's success, exclaimed, "Lor', master, there's a covey; if you get near 'em, won't you physic 'em?" "Physic them, you young rascal, what do you mean?" said the doctor. "Why, kill 'em, to be sure," replied the lad.

It is not worth while to hear what your servants say when they are angry; what your children say after they have slammed the door; what beggars say whom you have rejected from your door; what your neighbors say about your children; what your rivals say about your business or your dress.

THE CITY.

The Case of the City Clerk.—Mr. Lynch yesterday appeared before Judge Mallory, accompanied by his counsel. An examination of the charge of embezzlement was waived. The following are the charges as stated in the case by the counsel for the State:

One city order for $348 25, issued to Sharpstein & Lathrop, signed by S. C. West, acting Mayor; and afterwards issuing a city warrant on the same bill signed by H. L. Page, Mayor. The first order being issued, appropriated and sold by Lynch.

An order for $500 was issued to T. B. Kemp, and which, among others, was afterwards issued in smaller sums to the same amount, and signed by S. C. West, acting Mayor. The first being taken and used by Lynch.

An order for $143 69 was issued to H. Schumacher; afterwards an interest warrant was issued in its stead, and the order was not cancelled, but used by the defendant.

An interest warrant was issued May 9th, 1859, signed by H. L. Page, Mayor. On July 7, 1859, orders were issued on the same appropriation, to the same amount, signed by S. C. West, acting Mayor. The last issue was taken and used by the defendant.

The other specifications amount to between four and five thousand dollars. Mr. Lynch will be examined next Monday on the charge of forgery.

The Free Democrat, an active and respectable sheet published on the other side of the river, is putting forth huge efforts in it own behalf. It strikes one blow for City Reform and two for itself. It modestly takes home the praise of having wakened up the public; of having exposed mismanagement and rascality—single handed—without fear or favor, and appeals to the public to bear witness to what it says. The Free Democrat (published in this city by Messrs. Crounse & Fitch,) is aware that there is a tide in the affairs of communities, which, if taken at the flood, lead on to fortune. The Free Democrat is determined to take advantage of the present flood-tide of excitement.

If this sheet was actuated by motives of public good, it would hardly have said—

"Now that by our efforts, combined with recent developments, the public has wakened up, and this movement is becoming popular, they propose to follow in our lead, and bristle indignantly at the accusation of receiving favors from city officers."

But would rather feel gratified at the rest of the press following "in its lead." That it should feel alarmed, is quite natural under the circumstances, because some other paper may become the head and front of what the Democrat supposes will be a great independent movement. We are favorable to reform. But we believe the legitimate means will be the best. If there is any odium attaching to the present city administration, we want it affixed to the proper party, and we want the proscribed antidote administered.

Blades of Grass.—Some one has left on our table a little bunch of green grass, which may have been plucked from some sunny corner, where the southern wind has harped and sung for the last two weeks. We accept the simple gift. It is eloquent. We know not whether the person gathered these blades from a grave only a year old, or from beside a pleasant doorway, where they would have felt the impress of little feet during the long summer days that are coming. They tell a welcome story—these little green harbingers—a story of sunshine and breezy hours; and as they lie before us amid the mass of dreary papers, seem familiar, for we can recollect the time long ago, when we lay with our paper and pencil, amid the tall stalks and blades, and while their shadows flecked the half drawn sketch of the sleeping river below, we dreamed boyish fancies of a bright and eventful future.

Little blades of grass—that had commenced, amid the shuddering of March, to sing your vernal songs, you are welcome to the sterile sanctum, for you bring with you the freshness of a world without, where the bes shall wind his small, but mellow horn, and the incense of wild flowers shall flit like fairy diamonds on bright currents.

We welcome you! It may be that we shall never throw our body, amid your cool clusters, with the happy carelessness of the boy again, but you will grow on our grave ons of these days, and when the world will have forgotten us, you will return each year and spread your mantle over us spangled with dew. We love you, little insignificant plants! It does our worldly heart good to turn aside from the feverish pursuits of life a moment, and let our imagination swing upon your little blades in the scented breeze of the path.

Audi Alteram.—Who could have sent this little token of spring? Was it especially for the city editor to browse upon, or was it only a delicate reminder of the auspicious progress of the year? Eh? On closer examination, we find a lilac bud in the centre. That decides it. Some fair one did it; we perceive an odor about it now that had escaped us before. Will the lady accept the above effusion from our heart of heart's in return?

A Crop of Incipient Rascality Reaped.—On Sunday last, a gang of young rascals (who, if allowed to continue, might aspire to Municipal honors,) effected an entrance into the confectionary store of Mr. Murison, on East Water street, by cutting away the putty from one of the panes, and after taking out the light, they inserted one of their number, an infantile genius of only six or seven years old, named Casey, who drew the nails from the sash, and allowed his companions to enter. It is needless to say that bon bons, jelly cake and sugared almonds suffered extensively for some time. These young rascals after revelling in the sweets to satiety, crammed their pockets with fifteen dollars worth of confectionery, and left. On Tuesday evening, one of the detective officers got a glimpse of the infantile pioneer and prodigy Casey, and gave chase. The odds in legs were against the infant, and arriving at a house in the Third Ward, which was elevated about fourteen inches above the ground, he threw himself under and crawled out of reach of the officer. However, he was finally arrested, and his arrest led to the capture of seven others implicated in the burglary. They were yesterday taken up to the jail to await an examination.

The Wisconsin says:

The Germans are greatly excited over the developments against the Comptroller and Clerk, and we have heard a prominent German say that he believed if they could get at the prisoners, they would well nigh lynch them.

We are inclined to think our neighbor is mistaken. We have been among the Germans considerable, and though they feel "sore," we have heard on all hands the repeated assurance that they would wait patiently and seek redress only at the ballot box. At a large and enthusiastic meeting of Germans on East Water street, last Monday night, violence in any shape was deprecated.

Mr. Daggett has added an additional ornament to Young's Block, in the shape of a showy sign. The front of this fine building now presents a business-like appearance.

The Good Old Mayor.

BY EL POBRE.

Milwaukee had a Mayor once,
(For so I have been told,)
Who smoked his pipe, and loved his wife,
And lived a quiet, easy life,
In the palmy days of old.

The weather then was always warm;
But if it did turn cold,
He piled his fire with cracking logs
Out from the First Ward cedar bogs,
In the palmy days of old.

His meat was duck and venison,
(Then oysters were not sold,)
And when his larder lacked a dish,
He walked up to the dam to fish,
In the palmy days of old.

He kept his bank-notes in his hat,
(He did not deal in gold,)
And if a neighbor asked a V,
As like as not he gave him three,
In the palmy days of old.

Too brave to lie or cheat was he,
For knavery (too bold;
He did not waste the City funds,
Nor soil his hands with railroad bonds,
In the palmy days of old.

At last he died, as all must die,
And when his death-bell tolled,
The burghers sighed—"Alas! Alack!
Those good old times will ne'er come back,—
Those palmy days of old!"

And to this day, when, by some knave,
The City's robbed and sold,
These simple burghers, in their woe,
Protest that once it was not so,
In the palmy days of old.

St. Patrick's Day.—Next Saturday is supposed to be the anniversary of the death of St. Patrick, the tutelary saint of Ireland. Usher fixes the date of his decease 17th of March, A. D., 493; but Tillemont altered it to 455, Nennius to 464, and Moore to 465. St. Patrick was born, according to Usher and Tillemont, in 372; but Moore, in his "History of Ireland," states it 387. His birth took place, the majority of his biographers say, in the present town of Kilpatrick, at the mouth of the Clyde, between Dumbarton and Glasgow: but Moore insists that he was born near Boulogne, and that Nial, of the Nine Hostages, captured him, carried him to Ireland; and sold him to a person to tend sheep. He escaped, returned to France, became a monk, returned to Ireland, and converted the natives to christianity. He used the shamrock, with its three leaves, to illustrate the Trinity. Hence its consecration to St. Patrick.

The Lecture To-morrow Evening.—We feel assured that such is the anxiety to see the splendid new Hall just completed by Mr. Young, and called the "Academy of Music," that no persuasion is necessary to call out a large audience to-morrow evening to hear Col. Chas D. Robinson lecture on "The Lost Arts." This lecture is for the benefit of the Protestant Orphan Asylum, and the character of the lecturer, who has scores of friends throughout the country, will only be an additional reason to suppose the Academy will be filled to overflowing.

Let there be a generous "turn out." The Hall is spacious, comfortable, and secure, and is well worth the price of admission to inspect.

Sand's Cream Ale.—A pure article of ale is always a desideratum, and one that is free from adulteration will always command the patronage of the public. In this respect J. Sands, the well known Columbian Brewer is deserving of credit in offering to the public a pure, healthy article. A glass of this foaming transparent cream ale would have tickled the palate of old Gambrinus himself, the patron saint of the beer casks.—As a beverage for invalids it recommends itself not alone by the certificates of medical gentlemen, but upon its intrinsic merits. We recommend our friends and all desirous of obtaining a pure article, to send in their orders to "J. J. Sands' Columbian Brewery."—Chicago Journal.

To the above we can add that this justly celebrated ale can be had at the Spring Brewery, or at J. W. Ledyard's, 161 East Water street, Milwaukee.

Books Received.—"Ten Thousand Wonderful Things," with engravings, by Edmund Fillingham King, M. A.; New York, Dick & Fitzgerald, 18 Ann St. A wonderful book indeed, elegantly illustrated, and containing an immense stock of quaint, curious and rare facts.

"The Haunted Homestead and other Novelettes," by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth. Philadelphia, T. B. Peterson & Brothers. This is one of Mrs. Southworth's most pleasing works. Tunis & Co., on Wisconsin street, have both these publications.

At a regular meeting of the Queen City Lodge, No. 94, I. O. of Good Templars, held on Tuesday evening, March 13th, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The impression has gone abroad in community that dancing is part and parcel of Good Templarism, therefore, to refute these charges and do away with any ill-feeling caused by the said dance, be it

Resolved, That the Trustees of this, Queen City Lodge, No. 94, I. O. of G. T., be, and are, hereby instructed not to let or lease from, and after this date, this Hall for dancing purposes.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution, be furnished to the several daily papers in the city.

"The Spirit of the Week" is the name of a new military and sporting journal received from Detroit. It displays ability and we trust will be patronized among the professional men of the West.

New Publications.—The Cornhill Magazine, for February; "The Haunted House," by Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth; "Ten Thousand Wonderful Things," a book lively with fun and amusement; "Adventures of Mr. Verdant Green," "L' Femme," equal to "L'Amour"; Godey's Magazine, for April; Peterson's, for April; "The Adventures of Jonathan Homebred," by Sam Slick, Jr. Everything that is new, in the book and periodical line, is always to be had at 25 Wisconsin street.

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS, FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

GREAT REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Concord, March 14.—12 M.

Returns from 129 towns give Goodwin 31,556; Cate 21,132.

The returns from Cheshire and the lower portion of Rockingham county will considerably add to Goodwin's majority.

The Republicans have elected 18, and probably 50 of the Counsellors; 9 of the 12 State Senators, and a large majority of the Representatives—probably 100.

Later.—The latest returns state that Goodwin has 24,566; Cate 21,132; Crane 14,566. The former figures probably should read, 31,566.

Concord, March 14.—3 P. M.

162 towns foot up for Goodwin, rep., 30,253; Cate, dem., 15,627. The republicans have elected 171 members of the Legislature to 80 democrats.

Washington Matters.

New York, March 14—3 P. M.

The next number of the National Era will contain a notice announcing its suspension, after two more numbers are issued.

Mrs. Bailey has been reluctantly compelled to take this step, in consequence of the paper ceasing to be a paying concern, and because the House refuse to follow the invariable custom of all parties, and gives its printing patronage to the journals of its own party in Washington.

The House Committee on Elections, upon application of the counsel of Mr. Barrett, whose seat is contested by Mr. Blair, have granted them until Thursday to prepare their preliminary motions, before the testimony taken by Mr. Blair's counsel be considered.

There is a fair prospect that Kansas will be admitted this session, under the Wyandotte Constitution.

The Post Office Department will not renew its contracts with the mail carriers to California, which expire on the 1st of July, until Congress takes some action on the subject.

The Census Bureau is preparing instructions to the Marshal and Assistants, in taking the census.

The Chamber of Commerce of New York have urged that special attention be given to the commercial statistics, but they are not deemed of much importance. Internal commerce will be carefully taken.

The last estimate of the cost of taking the census this year is $1,600,000. It is the purpose of Supt. Kennedy to complete the returns, if possible, as early as the 1st of Oct.

Fire at Middleton, N. J.

Newark, N. J., March 14—3 P. M.

At Middleton, last night, the buildings in Mechanic street, owned and occupied by James M. & G. Wadie, silver platers and manufacturers of saddlery hardware, was totally destroyed by fire, together with a stock of finished and unfinished work.

A large amount was packed up ready for shipment, and but little of it saved. This was a large establishment of the kind, employing over 100 hands.

Insurance on the ready made stock, valued at $9,000, and on wares in process of manufacture, valued at $6,000, was $12 000. The buildings were old and valued at about $5,000; insured $2,000. Total loss $20,000; total insurance $14,000, principally in N. Y. offices.

Place of Holding the Democratic National Convention to be Changed.

New York, March 14—3 P. M.

The Central National Democratic Committee are considering the propriety of changing the place of holding the National Convention to some other point. The reason of this is owing to the exhorbitant and outrageous prices which have been fixed upon by hotel keepers and other places of accommodation.

A large number of Senators and members have directed the attention of the Committee to this matter, and are urging them to take immediate action. The Committee believe they have the power to make this change, and if backed up by the Democracy of the different sections, they will change the place of meeting to Baltimore.

Mr. McQueen desired to offer an amendment, and the subject was passed over.

Mr. Hickman reported a resolution requiring the Committee on Judiciary to report as to by what authority the army force is employed as posse comitatus; also to report on the legality of Slavery in the Territories; on the propriety of paying claimants in the Amistad case; also what legislation is necessary to ensure the faithful and efficient execution of the provisions of the Constitution in reference to the rendition of fugitives from justice; also to report a bill providing that no contestant of a seat in Congress shall be allowed a salary unless his claim is allowed; also calling on the Secretary of the Interior for a statement of the accounts of Pine, the late U. Mr. Buell introduced a joint resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Revolutionary Claims, giving a construction to the second section of the act of February, 1858, to continue half-pay to certain widows and orphans, so as to give pensions to all widows therein provided for, from the 4th of March, 1858, without reference to the time of marriage.

Mr. Nelson, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill, the substance of which is: That whereas, polygamy is sought to take justification as a religious rite by the inhabitants of one of our Territories, and as no privilege of self-government requires or sanctions any such abomination; therefore, be it enacted that such provisions or laws in the State called Deseret, or Utah, be declared null and void, and that persons guilty of polygamy be fined $500, and be imprisoned not less than two, or more than five years.

Mr. Nelson moved that the bill be put on its passage, being instructed to do so by the committee.

Mr. Houston was opposed to the bill and moved to table it. The bill and report were ordered to be printed.

The House went into committee on the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation Bill. A provision of which, appropriating $40,000 for the suppression of the African Slave trade, elicited some debate. An amendment making the latter applicable to the rendition of fugitive slaves, and not to apply at all to Africans reclaimed from the brig Echo, was rejected. The bill was then laid aside and the Indian Appropriation Bill taken up.

Mr. Curry made a speech on the slavery question, contending that slavery was a great social, political and humanitarian fact.

The amendment was rejected. Yeas 12; nays 33.

Mr. Lane renewed.

Mr. Fessenden's amendment, fixing the time of study at four years, and argued in its favor.

Mr. Davis thought the change from five to four years could not be made without great inconvenience and confusion in the course of study. The amendment was rejected.

The Recent Railroad Rail at Portage City—Matters at La Crosse.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

La Crosse, March 10th, 1860.

EDS. SENTINEL:—Pursuant to request, I will give you a short account of the progress of our "eastward bound" train, with its freight of merry excursionists to Portage, as also the peregrinations of "yours truly" since. We left the "city of bricks" Thursday evening at precisely 4:45, "railroad time," under charge of that prince of conductors CRIPPEN, and sped along, as the Hoosiers say, "right smart," receiving at each station a fresh accession to our gay company. We arrived at Portage "on time," and found the dance already in progress, the western train having arrived some hours before.

The large freight depot was tastefully decorated and brilliantly illuminated, and with the gay company assembled within formed a scene of beauty that is seldom equalled "away out west."

The supper was gotten up in ROGERS' best style, and to those who are traveling over this road, any thing more on this head would be superfluous. Your correspondent is one of the very few who care but little for "good victuals," but this being an extraordinary occasions, and the table being so beautifully arranged, he could not refrain from going in six times, during the night, just to look at the tables, and that train of cars. CHARLEY CASE ought to have a medal for his design, which represented a miniature locomotive drawing a train of cars laden with dessert, and set off with flags and festoons. It was one of the most appropriate and beautiful ornaments we ever saw, and excited much admiration. Your correspondent was much attracted to the aforesaid train, and came away —strange as it may seem—with empty pockets.

But the dance. Something must be said about it, and we hardly know what, unless we should write a book, 16 mo. 200 pp. Nothing less would do it justice. We might ring the changes on grand, elegant, superb, splendid, &c., &c., but there are not enough adjectives in the English language to express the thing properly. It was unqueathonably, undeniably, incontrovertibly the best thing of the kind that we have seen, and we have never, since our boyish days when we used to swing on the gate and eat gingerbread, enjoyed ourself better. Every one "went in" with a perfect abandonment, and enjoyment appeared to be the melancholy fate of all present, from which there was no escaping. This accounts for the fact of the "last dance," being performed after sunrise Friday morning.

Friend MOORE, of the La Crosse Union & Democrat, had a rough time. He is one of the few whose capacity for enjoyment extends from their "scalp-lock" to the nail heads in the heels of their boots, and he being a good specimen of "linked sweetness long drawn out," may be said to have had a lengthy season of enjoyment. He appeared to be captivated with the charms of a young lady from Milwaukee, and for the nonce, even "MARIA" was forgotten, or remembered only as a passing vision.

CHARLEY WRIGHT, of the News, though with a rather slim corporeoity, enjoyed himself as well as if he weighed 800, and made himself especially useful in the morning, when the "Screech Owl Infantry," made daylight hideous, and very nearly scared the western train from the track.

And the "Infantry." A down East general training couldn't hold a candle to it.—Every species of weapon, offensive and defensive, known to the denizens of this "yearth," was put in requisition, and with the impromptu band, got up "for this occasion" only, they were hard to beat anywhere in the "Redentry."

The best of friends must part, and as the several trains came in, all departed for their several homes; the "ball was broke;" the "militagtary" dispersed, and Portage left to return to its every-day routine.

The ball was gotten up by the employees of the road, for the benefit of Mr. ROGERS, who is one of the most whole-souled——but there is no use talking about it. Commend us to all such western men as Mr. ROGERS, and especially to the nowhere-to-be-beaten tables of his excellent landlady.

Pass over the trip, from Portage City to La Crosse, where we arrived, as the Hibernian says, at "4 P. M. Friday afternoon." Friday evening attended the Universalist Mite Society, held at Sykes' Museum. This is one of the most popular institutions in this city, (we mean the Mite Society, but might include the Museum,) and fun appears to be the order of the evening, every time. The prettiest girls and finest dancers of the city attend these Museum gatherings. The Queen of Knight seemed to have special attraction for SYKES, while Miss NETTIE R., the star singer of La Crosse, had attractions for all. But Miss TENA H. must be put down as the sweetest and prettiest of the Museum birds. Sykes' Museum is deserving of a whole chapter of itself. SYKES has spent much time and money in gathering nearly all the beasts, birds, and fishes of the West. They are handsomely grouped in large cases, and next to the girls may be set down as the most attractive institution in La Crosse.

Saturday evening, I attended the "Library Society," connected with the Public Schools of this city. There were some two hundred in attendance, and I was surprised to see the young ladies, and "school-marms" taking leading parts in debates and criticisms. If I were a bachelor I should make a "bold push" for one of these LaCrosse "school-marms!"

The two daily newspapers of LaCrosse seem to be both flourishing; but the Union & Democrat is decidedly taking lead. Its editors are liberal, go-a-head men, and safe to bet on every time. Next to LaCrosse they stand up for the commercial capital of their own State over any other. I am glad to see that our Milwaukee merchants have done the handsome thing for them in the way of advertising. It is good seed, well sown.—In a general way, I should judge that business was a little slow just now in LaCrosse, though the people keep a stiff upper-lip, and talk big of prophets ahead. LaCrosse is soon to be the head and jumping off place of railroads on the Upper Mississippi for the next two years, as all hopes of railroads in Minnesota are abandoned for the present. This is "tough luck" for the railroad companies and Minnesotians, but neither party in the Legislature at St. Paul are disposed to make any moves that may damage Presidential calculations next summer.

The river is open to LaCrosse, and the Ferry boat is plying across the Mississippi to LaCrescent. A steamboat whistle from below is expected every hour. There is a mile or two of ice just above the city, but a good boat could plow through to the lake without any trouble. There is said to be 300,000 bushels of grain stored in the up river towns, waiting to be moved by the first run of boats.

Yours as ever,

BIG INJIN.

ON DIT.—It is said that a suite of about twenty noblemen and distinguished gentlemen will accompany the Prince of Wales on his visit to our shores. Letter from Columbus.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

COLUMBUS, WIS., March 10, '60.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Were you ever at Columbus? If not, I would suggest that you leave your "Sanctum" in the care of the d—l, and take the cars on the M., W. & B. V. R. R., and pay us a visit; which, I think, would amply repay you for the time and trouble expended in such a journey; and I can vouch for your safe arrival in our village in due course of time, if you put yourself under the care of the gentlemanly conductors on the above road.

In the mean time I would like to have a short talk with you, through the columns of your valuable paper, which is read with interest in this section.

The weather has been delightful here since March begun. A few more such balmy days, will start the flowers from their lair, with a fine prospect of a speedy seed time, under highly encouraging weather.

The Winter term of the Columbus Union School, under the management of Professor JOHN LOVEWELL, of Yale College, as Principal of the High School—supported by Miss E. B. LOWBER, of Janesville, as Principal of the Intermediate Department, and Miss E. ROSENKRANZ, of Columbus, Principal of the Primary Department, has just closed with great success, and may well be said an honor to the town; considering that the term just closed was the first under the present management.

The examination of the pupils at the close of the school, by the efficient School Committee, supported by the Board, was also a success, notwithstanding the croakings of a few old women and Miss Nancyish old men to the contrary. The scholars acquitted themselves with great honors, by proving to the committee and the numerous visitors present that the labors of the teachers had not been in vain. At the close of the examinations, prizes were given to scholars in each department for the best scholarship and deportment during the term, when Miss EVANS in the High School, Miss AXTELL in the Intermediate, and Miss QUICKENDEN in the Primary Departments, were the happy recipients. The school house is new, large and commodious—was built last Summer at a cost of about $6,000, which, I am happy to state, is all paid for, and the district free from debt.

Business is reviving with return of spring —and merchants and mechanics are now prospering.

Mr. D. E. BASSETT is about commencing a block of stores and offices, opposite the Whitney House, to be built of Milwaukee brick—three stories high—which, when completed, will be an ornament to the town. I understand the corner is to be occupied by the Bank of Columbia.

It is scarcely necessary for me to speak of the Whitney House, as the renown of Mr. WHITNEY and lady, as caterers of the public, are well known all over the State. Every person that visits Columbia, should stop at the Whitney House, where the comforts of the traveler are cared for in the best manner, and at a fair price. More anon. O. K.

A Man Administers Poison to a Horse, His Two Children—Little Girls—and then takes Poison Himself!

From the Syracuse Journal of Thursday Evening

Our city was thrown into great excitement yesterday and to-day, in consequence of a valuable horse belonging to Dr. Searles being killed by poison—two little girls, children of Peter Tinker, dead—and Tinker himself a corpse.

The facts of the case, as we have been able to learn, are briefly these: Yesterday, Peter Tinker was seen coming out of the stable a short time before the horse died, and it is supposed that he gave him strychnine, because he was jealous of Dr. Searles, the owner of the animal. It seems that sometime last fall, Mr. Tinker, who is reported a man of good habits, employed Dr. Searles to prescribe for his wife, who was then ailing. The Doctor attended Mrs. Tinker, and the result is that she abandoned her two children, and is now living under the same roof with Dr. Searles and his wife.

The children, it seems, since the separation of Mr. Tinker and his wife, have been living at different places, among friends.—The last place at which one of the children was stopping was Mr. Lilly's. On Tuesday afternoon the father called at Mr. Lilly's, and took the child away, saying that he was going to take his children among friends. The little girls' names are Lucinda (who went by the name of "Eva") and Flora. "Eva" was eight and Flora six years old. On taking leave of Mrs. Lilly, she was asked to sing a little song, beginning "I have a home, &c., or "I have a mother." The little girl in reply, said, "I can't sing those songs, because I have no home. I had a mother, but I have got none now."

Yesterday afternoon Tinker was found in the streets, apparently intoxicated. He was taken to the Park Hotel, and Dr. Fuller called, who discovered that Tinker had taken a heavy dose of laudanum, and was suffering from the effects. A pistol heavily loaded, was found in his pocket, and various surmises are circulated in relation to his intentions. Tinker said he procured the pistol because he contemplated going west; but he denounced Dr. Searles in severe terms, and it is suspected he intended to shoot Dr. S. on account of jealousy. Tinker passed a terrible night, but this morning he seemed better. Several efforts were made last night by attendants to persuade him to allow his shoes to be taken off, but he utterly refused. This morning about 8 o'clock he died in a spasm. After his death some papers were found in his stockings, one of which revealed the fact that he had poisoned his two children, and that they were in the room formerly occupied by him, in the Old Medical College building. On going to the room, the two little girls were found dead, laid out, with their little hands folded across their breasts.

It seems that Tinker, Tuesday, administered laudanum to his children in some oysters, in the room where they were found this morning; then he staid by them until they died, and after straightening them out, left them and took poison himself. It was a terrible sight to look at the children as they lay on an old straw bed with froth at their mouths from the effect of the poison. The mother of the children came to see her offspring—looked at them carelessly—and went away with little or no emotion. There is a history connected with this whole affair which we cannot now stop to publish—we may do so some other time.

The indignation of the populace was aroused this morning against Dr. Searles to such an extent that it was deemed by the officers, necessary for the personal safety of the Dr., to put him into the penitentiary. We know not to what extent the Doctor can be or is implicated in the matter, but from what we can learn, we think that his position is anything but a comfortable one.

WILD BOAR HUNT.—The Jour. d'Alencon has the following: "The pack of hounds of M. Rattier de Verveins, twenty-five in number, lately hunted a huge wild boar in the forest near this town, but, after three hours chase, could not bring it to bay, though it stopped now and then to attack the dogs. Twelve fresh hounds having been set on, it at last stopped, and the dogs attacked it with great determination. It however ripped up several, and threw others in the air. One of the keepers having arrived, fired his carbine, but only broke one of the fore feet of the animal. The chief keeper then arrived, and fired two balls at his head, without, however, producing any effect. He soon reloaded, and then lodged one ball in the boar's muzzle, and the other behind his ear. The last proved mortal, the animal falling dead. It was then found that two of the dogs were dead, ten more mortally wounded, and that several others were more or less injured. The boar weighed 150 kilogrammes (about 3 cwt.)"

NEW SUGAR is being brought into town in small quantities, which sells readily at 10c. The prospect thus far is not as promising for a large crop as was the case last spring. Still many of our sugar-makers are clearing up, making preparations to do the best they can. —Appleton Crescent.

ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS IN THE CENTRAL PARK.—A bill has been introduced in the New York Assembly chartering a Zoological Society, and setting apart for it sixty acres of the land appropriated for the Central Park in New York City.

INFANTILE WHISKERS.—A male child was born in Standfield, Mass., lately, healthy and well formed, with "a well defined pair of soft silky whiskers, stretching from ear to ear." The child is now five weeks old, bright and lively, with a growing beard.

THE CHARLESTON PAPERS confirm the statement that five dollars a day will be the established price for board at the hotels of that city during the holding of the Democratic National Convention.

An Army Reviewed by a Lion.

The author of a recent work on Algeria relates the following incident which occurred while marching with a body of French troops on their way to attack the Kabyles:

"We had ridden carelessly forward, admiring the view, or speculating on the game to be found in those mountain passes, when the sudden halt and unslinging of carbines started us. Pushing past the rear files, we galloped to the front just in time to prevent the sergeant, who led the advance, firing at a noble lion, who, advancing toward the same path which we were pursuing, had halted abruptly at our view. He had evidently come from a different direction to the one we were pursuing, and was making to the very pile of mountains whose sombre color had excited our curiosity.

Five minutes later and we should not have seen him; but, as it happened, there he stood, evidently very much astonished at thus plumping suddenly on so large a party. Were we to fire, we should doubtless either kill or mortally wound the animal. In the first case, all would be well, and we should be richer by a lion's skin; in the second place, we should be sure to lose one or more men, and it was a responsibility the young officer would not assume. Hastily giving the order to unsling carbines, he closed up the men with some difficulty, for the horses were very restive. In case the lion showed a disposition to attack, all were to face toward him, and it was to be hoped that the general discharge would prove mortal. If disposed to let us do so we were to pass him quietly.

I have often heard that the lion by day in no way resembles the same animal by night. During the darkness, seeking his prey where he can find it, he will attack anything with the greatest ferocity; but during the daytime, it being his proper period for sleep, and being, besides, generally gorged with blood, he seldom attacks man. In the present instance, I had little confidence in the effect of our fire, for our horses, as their riders approached their dreaded enemy, became more and more alarmed and restive. The lion was, doubtless, the one I had heard roar in the distance the previous night, and he had been to the other side, seeking his food among the donors of the native tribes near Tenient, from which he was now returning to his den.

Our fires well closed up, we neared the lion, who showed no symtoms of fear, gazed at us, not savagely, but apparently with great curiosity. Then he moved his tail to and fro, like a large cat; and as we neared him he deliberately sat down on his hind-quarters, looking then, for all the world, like a queer colored Newfoundland dog. Just as we ranged up with him, passing by in single file, the horses' heads and tails were together, he opened his huge mouth with a mighty yawn, uttering, as he did so, a sound between a heavy sigh and a growl. This he did without rising, and in a most sleepy manner, as though he were extremely indifferent to our presence.

All this time our horses were terribly excited, and my own, a jet black Syrian barb, which had carried me many a mile over the plains of Wallachina Roumelio, and who, from his intense love of mischief and fighting I had long since christened "Baschi-Bazouchi," was now completely cowed, and the walking at a very slow pace, his black coat was all white with foam. I was not fifteen paces from the lion, and I could not resist the fancy that seized me to rein in and look at him. Trembling as ever him, my horse obeyed me, and as the rear files of our escort moved past, I contemplated the noble brute coolly.

He was a splendid male, of the color called by the natives the "black lion," and which they say is the most fierce and terrible of them all. He seemed sleepy and quiet enough just then, and did not even look at me. The jangling of the men's arms appeared to catch his attention; and it was indeed but a moment's space that was allowed me for contemplation, for a slight move on his part caused my horse to bound aside so much as almost to unhorse me, and when I recovered my seat and my power over my frightened steed, the sleepy fellow had deliberately lain down, and resting his noble head on two mighty paws, he followed us with his eyes as we slowly moved away."

STEAM FIRE ENGINE TRIAL.—This forenoon a new steam fire engine, of Holly's patent, built by Messrs. Silsbee, Mynderse & Co., at Seneca Falls, N. Y., was exhibited in Lowell street, and worked in presence of the Committee on Fire Department, Chief Engineer Bird, and other parties interested in all improvements in these labor-saving fire extinguishing machines. The engine is a rotary machine, built on the same principle as the Eclipse, but about 2500 pounds lighter, weighing, according to the certificate of the City Weigher at the scales of Haymarket Square, 6266 pounds, when filled with water and loaded with fuel, ready for immediate action, and when without fuel and water, 5000 lbs. It is set upon four wheels of a new pattern, built entirely of iron, but light and substantial.

The principal improvement in this engine is in the boiler, which is vertical, with vertical water pipes passing directly through the fire. The pipes are closed at the bottom, and open at the top, where they pass through a water-light plate, and communicate with the water in the boiler which rises to a level. The arrangement of the tubes causes a constant current, the water rising on the outside of the outer tube as it is heated, and its place being supplied by a current flowing downward through the tube from the boiler. The smoke and flame pass among the tubes, up through flues. It now seems to be the general opinion that steam can be generated more rapidly in vertical tubes than by any other plan yet tried.

At the trial to-day, in 5 minutes 50 seconds from the moment of lighting the fire, 15 lbs. of steam was indicated, and water was played through an inch nozzle. During the trial, the engine played streams of various sizes, and all of which were played well and powerfully. A single stream from a 1 1-2 inch nozzle was played 218 feet horizontally; a single 1 1-4 inch stream, 235 feet horizontally; a 1 1-8 single, and two 1 inch streams were played at about the same distance, and it was generally conceded a little further, but no actual measurement was made.

The performance of the engine appeared to be in the highest degree satisfactory, and the machine, which is very neat and compact, was pronounced a great improvement over the "Eclipse" and "Boston," from the same manufactory, both of which are now owned by, and in the service, of the city.—Boston Journal.

JUDGE GALE TO START A PAPER.—The La Crosse Union says it noticed a day or two ago Hon. George Gale in town—just returned from Milwaukee, with type for a literary paper to be started at Galesville, which is to be neutral in politics. Success to the Judge in the laudable enterprise, says the Union, and so say we, if such a thing be possible. But we greatly doubt it. It fairly seems like insanity to start a new paper in these times, but still if any man can succeed or deserves to, it is the gentleman whose name we have mentioned.—Jackson Co. Banner.

"Allow me, ere closing my letter," writes a Paris correspondent, "to announce to your readers that the Emperor is quite well; that he eats, sleeps and takes his usual out-door exercise, and that no fearful mysterious malady troubles him, the sensation to the contrary notwithstanding. I had the pleasure of skating yesterday near his majesty, and observed that he was gay, and cut his circles and went backwards just as though he never had had extraordinary spinal diseases or fearful Solferino visions, while his elasticity routed all idea of secret mail shirts and hidden armor. The Empress and Prince Imperial are also in excellent health."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—This afternoon, as Prof. Carr's carriage, containing his two boys, was standing in front of Bliss, Eberhard & Festner's book store, a team attached to a lumber wagon got frightened, and ran against it, throwing the children out and damaging it considerably. The eldest boy received a severe wound on the head.—Mad. Patriot.

A "PENNY SHAKESPEARE" is among the latest English enterprises—well printed copies of the plays being furnished separately to the public at this small charge. It will probably be very successful, like the two-penny Waverly Novels, of which, up to 1858, twelve million sheets had been sold, weighing upward of 335 tons.

MORNING.

BY H. E. WILLMAN.

Morn again in golden power
Tints the curtains of the East,
And again in robes of tinsel
Standeth at her holy channel,
Making ready for the feast!
Gently flushing,
Gently blushing,
Like a bride before the priest!

Oh, what holy thoughts come o'er us,
As we drink the morning's balm!
As we view the fields before us,
As we join the pleasant chorus
Of the merry forest psalm!
As we wander,
As we ponder,
In the morning's blessed calm.

Thoughts of other, happier hours,
Come to us with memories rife;
And again we seek the bowers
Where we used to gather flowers,
In the morning march of life:
Memories greet us,
Pleasures meet us,
Yet unstained by care or strife.

Oh, how much of life is wasted
In this so-called world of bliss!
How much pleasure grass is blasted—
How much happiness untasted—
How much pleasure do we miss
Just by keeping
Dull or sleeping,
Such a holy morn as this!

Happy! happy! blessed morning!
May my soul retain the view;
Ere the evening lamps are burning
May the holy picture warning,
Teach me to begin anew!
Guide me cheerful,
Make me prayerful,
Till life's pilgrim-day is through.

TWENTY STEPS

TO ONE WOMAN'S HEART.

STEP FOURTEEN.

A LONDON STORY.

The scene was a London fireside about the middle of December. A family group was assembled round the tea table, in the dining-room of a convenient substantial house, in a pleasant and well-esteemed quarter; evidences of comfort and wealth were abundant, and perhaps a stranger would have observed that the apartment bore more the appearance of a commodious general sitting-room than of a mere salle a manger. Had he known also that there was a very elegant suite of drawing-rooms above, and a numerous and efficient corps of servants below stairs, he must have conjectured that there was some especial reason for the family spending the evening in the room where they had dined.

A girl of sixteen, just bursting out of childhood—with the bloom of her early womanhood rather to be guessed at than acknowledged—was presiding at the tea-table; her next sister, the junior by a year or two, was busily engaged on some wool-work, perhaps manufacturing slippers for papa; little Willy was cutting the leaves of his prize-book; and Mrs. Ireton was leaning back in her arm-chair, eyeing the party with quiet maternal satisfaction, and every now and then dropping some pleasant words—like flowers thrown upon a stream—into the murmuring babble of their family talk. Opposite to her, in the fellow arm-chair, sat her beloved husband, with their youngest treasure—a golden-haired, blue-eyed darling of four years old—on his knee; but for the father was no longer the blessing of beholding the dear faces around him. Mr. Ireton was blind, and it was on account of his bereavement that the family so often occupied the room with which he thought himself the most familliar. As the child on his knee clasped its arms around his neck, played tricks with his cravat, and showered kisses on his cheeks with baby prattle, and restless infantile glee, there was something pathetic in the manner in which the father passed his hands across the face of the child he had never seen! The gesture was all the more touching, because it was only loving, not sad.

Willy put down his new book, and handed Mr. Ireton his tea, with a gentle care not to have been looked for in a school-boy; while she of the embroidery-needle hastened to lift down baby, as the youngest was still called, from her father's knee. It was the delight of Mr. Ireton's children to watch and wait upon him: and they felt jealous every time a servant approached him.

"I wonder who it can be," said Mrs. Ireton, after a pause; "we are not expecting any one this evening, and it is a most unusual time for visitors."

Meanwhile the door was opened, and the quick hearing of the blind man instantly recognized well-known voices. He exclaimed: "Only Frances and Edward. I think they are enquiring if we are alone. How good of them to come round!"

The next moment, Mrs. Ireton's married daughter, Mrs. Crawford, and her husband, entered the room. They were a noble looking pair; he a handsome man of about thirty, with that best air of high-breeding which is alike removed from petty affectations or cold indifference of manner, and the principal charm of which will be found to consist in its perfect ease and naturalness; this manner, be it observed, rising readily enough whenever occasion requires, to generous enthusiasm, but never betraying self-consciousness about trifles—a manner almost always demanding the rare combination of circumstances which includes nobility of character, large and clear intellect, and a worldly position that keeps far away depressing cares and anxieties.

Mrs. Crawford, the wife of three months, and barely yet one-and-twenty, must be rather more elaborately described. Considerably taller than the medium height, her finely moulded figure was erect and yet pliant; and some inner spring of thought or feeling gave such grace to her movements, that her slightest and most careless gestures impressed the beholder with an idea of beauty. Features far more lovely than those of the passionless Greek ideal, were Frances Crawford's though of the character to invite comparison with it; and eyes of Oriental lustre, a pure yet warmly tinted complexion, and abundant dark tresses of silky texture completed the picture. But that her smile was marvellously sweet and tolerably frequent, one must have declared that haughtiness was the predominant expression of her beautiful countenance. And haughty, too, at times she was; intolerant of meanness and falsehood; impatient of control, save, when yielding and obeying, she was likewise able to respect and veberate. It was curious, that while her sisters commonly called Bessy and Lotty, and the family in general, were rich in nick-names, no one ever had thought of appropriating one to her, or even of degrading the majestic Frances to simple Fanny.

It is a pleasant sight to witness cordial family greetings; and though the married daughter resided in the next street, and meetings were had almost daily, she stooped over the blind man's chair, kissed him fondly, saluted her mother almost as warmly, and bent her cheek down to meet the pleased faces of her young brothers and sisters.—Then she returned to her father's side, threw back her large shawl, which, as her shawls did, fell in an artistic drape across her chair; and now she removed her bonnet, and lifting both hands for a moment to her hair, seemed with one touch to have shaped its plaits and braids to order. She formed, at that instant, a charming tableau vivant, but loving eyes were the only mirrors in which it reflected.

"It is very kind of you, my dear, to come in to-night," said Mr. Ireton, pressing the hand which had laid itself in his.

"Dear papa," replied Frances in a low tone, "I have had quite an adventure, and we could not rest without telling you about it. But—it concerns," and here she hesitated a moment, "it concerns Uncle Pembroke. Perhaps I had better wait till Willy and baby are gone to bed."

"As you like, my love," returned Mr. Ireton: "It struck eight some time ago. Ah! here comes nurse for the little ones, and Willy will soon follow."

And while Willy is loitering out his last ten minutes, showing his Latin prize to his brother-in-law, and wishing many "good-nights," the reader shall be made acquainted with the broad outlines of family history which concerned Mr. Ireton and his brother Pembroke. They were the twin and youngest sons of a wealthy banker, who had maintained the highest repute during the first quarter of the present century. An elder brother had always been intended for the man of business to succeed in the banking house; and the twins being amply provided for by the will of a maternal relative, had for some joyous years followed pretty nearly the bent of their inclinations. Their according tastes led them to travel, and chiefly in the south of Europe; and there had been fostered and cultivated the intense love and appreciation of Art which seemed with both of them to be a master passion. For a little while bright indeed appeared their human destiny. Blessed with health, youth, and fortune, they seemed free to follow Art for its own pure sake, to woo it in its loftiest and noblest moods, without regard to the "jingling of the guineas," or instant present fame. As if to crown their felicity, these almost inseparable brothers had attached themselves to two sisters, to whom they were on the eve of being united, when the fearful money-panic of 1825 shook the mercantile classes to their centre.

The banking-house of which old Mr. Ireton was the head, and which was like a prop to a score of others, fell, involving countless families in its ruin, and even the private fortunes of the twin brothers, which had been invested in the bank, shared the general fate. The elder brother, the man of business whose stern integrity had all gathered round one point of honor, bowed beneath the shock: his reason gave way, and in an hour of horror and madness, he destroyed himself. And when the absent pair, who had been recalled from Italy at the crisis of pecuniary ruin, arrived in London, they found their poor bereaved father in a yet deeper and darker agony than that for which they were prepared.

Now was applied the test of two characters which had hitherto seemed to obey the same laws and follow the same impulses. But a river that glides and sparkles in the sunshine, has often its two currents: and though it seems to flow so evenly among flowers and meadows, parts its waters when shoals and rocks are near. So alike in person were William and Pembroke Ireton, that dear friends mistook them for each other; so alike in tastes had they been, that books were common property between them; pictures, it is true, were sometimes called "mine," and "thine," but as the brothers never dwelt apart, this had little significd. Ordinary friends of the amateur artists knew not their respective drawings, though to be sure, certain connoisseurs had lately announced that William had the truer and higher genius; and yet it was William who, after a few days of wrestling thought, abandoned the pursuit of Art forever.

MONETARY.

WEDNESDAY P. M., March 14th, 1860.

We have to report a continued stringency in the money market. Exchange on the East is firm at 2 @ 3 cent premium, and currency quite scarce. The spring trade, however, is opening briskly: produce is beginning to move freely; and farmers are getting good prices for their grain,—all of which must tend to put a vast amount of money in circulation within a few weeks.

WISCONSIN DEPOSITORY.—The Marine Bank of this city is now winding up its affairs, and the business is being transacted at the Banking House of Messrs. MARSHALL & ILSLEY, where depositors will have their claims duly considered on presentation. Its assets are amply sufficient, we are credibly informed, to cover all its indebtedness, and its notes are secured by specie deposits in the hands of the Comptroller.

NEW YORK MONEY MATTERS.—Our New York exchanges report that the money market grows sensibly easier from day to day. The amount of money offering by banks and other lenders at five per cent on call, is in excess of the demand, and parties who have to make it over are obliged to be satisfied with 4@5. Still the rates for paper are maintained at the maximum of six, which occasionally includes a brokerage. At seven all good paper is readily convertible into money. Single names range from 7 to 8. There is now, they say, every pro-ject of an extremely easy money market, at least for the next four or five months.

We have the following by telegraph from New York today.

STOCKS—Rather firmer, but not active; Chi & R I 64@64¼; C & Chicago 18; C & Alton 58; Pac Mail 90¾; C & N W 63½; Illinois Cent 93; Canton 38; Pac Mail 90¾; C & N W 63½; Mo 6's 91½; Tenn 6's 91½; U S 5's of '65 100½.

COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY P. M., March 13th, 1860.

Receipts by Railroad for the 24 hours ending noon to-day included:

Flour, bbls	641
Wheat, bus	16,436
Barley, bus	236
Oats, bus	65
Cattle, head	76
Hogs, head	26
Wool, lbs	1,000

There was quite a reaction in wheat to-day, caused by the changed tone of affairs at New York, and the market closed flat at a decline of 3c on No. 1 and 4@5c on Extra for present delivery. There was a sale on Change of 5,000 bus No. 1, c. o. b. April 15th, at $1,07 and immediately afterwards the same party sold 5,000 bus, c. o. b. May 1st, at $1,07—a decline of 5¾c on the transactions yesterday. No. 1 in store was freely offered at $1,09 on Change, and later at $1,08, we were informed, but no buyers were to be found. Early in the day some 3,000 bus extra sold at $1,10 for delivery at the mills, but later in the day $1,08 was the ruling figure, and towards the close some small lots were offered at a still further decline of 1c, but buyers were mostly out of the market.

No sales of flour were reported, and we heard of no offers at any reduction from previous prices. Not much done in other articles, and no essential change in quotations.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE MARKET.—The receipts of the articles named, at Chicago yesterday, were as follows:

Flour, bbls	742
Wheat, bus	12,650
Oats, bus	51,221
Corn, bus	5,657
Barley, bus	2,000
Rye, bus	507

The Press & Tribune says:

The Flour market to-day was very dull and prices tended strongly downward. There were some buyers for the New Orleans and St. Louis markets, but they generally withdrew or kept aloof at a decline. About 1,500 bbls of all kinds changed hands at $5.00@5.12½ for Red to choice Spring extra, $5,95 for fine Spring Superfine, and $6,00 for Red Winter extras. The Wheat market which has been strong for several days, became unsettled on the morning and a decline of 3@4c was experienced, with sales of old receipts No. 2 Spring at $1,04½ at store, and $1,03@1,05 by sample on track. Corn was also very dull and prices declined fully 1c. Nothing doing in Oats, with still a downward tendency—sales ranging from 44@45½c for old to new receipts No. 1 in store; 42c for new receipts No. 2 in store; and 42@42½c for New receipts Rejected. Barley was also very dull. Rye was in fair demand, and steady. Barley declined 3c—with little or no demand, and limited transactions at 55c for No. 1 on track.

There is active demand and best buoyant—choice selling freely at $2,70@2,80, according to quality. Clover dull and heavy. Hungarian Grass steady at 70@80c. Millet scarce and wanted. Provisions quiet. A lot of 5,000 pieces city cured Shoulders, from day's salt, were sold today at 4¾c packed. Lard quiet and nominal. Hides firm. Highwines dull and heavy.

A despatch from St. Louis, dated yesterday, reports:

FLOUR—Demand light, but holders firm. Country superfine $5,62½@5,50; country extra, $6,50@6,60.

WHEAT—Inactive and dull. Spring $1,20@1,23; club $1,30; club for seed $1,40; poor fall $1,20@1,25; good white and red $1,35@1,40; choice white $1,45; mixed and mixed white 56@57c; yellow 56c; yellow and white 56@57c; choice yellow 61@63c; white for 200.

OATS—Light supply—sales at 52@53c.

COMMERCIAL MATTERS AT CINCINNATI.—The Cincinnati Gazette of yesterday contains the following, embracing some interesting information:

In the general markets to-day, business was not active in any department, and in prices of leading staples no change of importance was observable, with the exception of an advance of 3c. per bushel in the price of wheat. In provisions 100 hhds. bacon sold at 7½ and 9¾c for shoulders and sides, and 80 do. shoulders at 7¾c. These figures indicate a slight concession, but at the prices, there are more buyers than sellers. The only sale of bulk meat was 50,000 lbs. shoulders at 6¾. Pork was not inquired for, and prices were nominally unchanged. Lard was held at 10¾c for barrel and 10¾c for keg. There was no demand. The imports and exports for the week were as follows:

	Imports.	Exports.
Bacon, hhds	44	1,673
do tcs	274	1,672
Pork, bbls	391	1,580
do hhs	9	843
do tcs
do lbs	1,270,246

The receipts at this point since September 1st, show a decrease, as compared with last year, of 319 hhds bacon, 10,221 bbls pork, and an increase of 305 tcs, 130 boxes, and 1,117,797 lbs pork.

The exports for the same periods show an increase this year of 4,569 hhds bacon; 2,650 tcs do; 6,460 bbls pork, and 72,000 lbs do; and a decrease of 22,500 bbls pork. The stock of bacon at this time is estimated at 25,000 @ 30,000 hhds. Of lard there is a falling off in the receipts of 5,000 bbls, and an increase in the exports of 11,000 bbls. These figures would indicate a heavy deficit in the stocks as compared with last year, but some allowance must be made for a falling off in consumption.

Flour was quiet but firm at $5,60@5,65 for superfine. The week's export were 2,000 bbls greater than the imports. Wheat advanced 2c with a good demand at $1,38@1,35 for white, and $1,28@1,30 for red.

The receipts since September 1st, are 10,000 bushels less than to the corresponding date last year, indicating that the supplies in the country September 1st, '59, and 1860 were about the same. This corresponds with the views advanced in these columns after the close of harvest. The increase in the product of 1859 was offset by the deficit of the stock of old. Corn was dull at anything over 48c for car. The receipts this year show an increase of about 100,000 bushels. Oats steady at 28@29c. The receipts since Sept. 1st, show an increase of 171,000 bushels, but prices, notwithstanding, have been well sustained. Barley firm at 70 to 80c for fair to prime fall. The receipts this season show a falling of 146,000 bushels. Whiskey was in moderate demand at 19c. There was a moderate demand for sugar, and prices were firm. Molasses dull at 30. Coffee was buoyant, and 100 bags choice Rio brought 14c. We have the report of Champion's statement of the sugar crop, which shows a heavy deficit as compared with last year. The figures compare thus:

	1859-60.	1858-9
Sugar, hhds	221,912	302,296
Molasses, gallons	17,525,000	24,897,570

Showing a falling off in sugar of 140,384 hhds, and in molasses of 7,099,740 gallons. The decrease in sugar is 31½ per cent, and in Molasses 28 per cent. We published yesterday a letter from Havana, estimating a falling off in the sugar crop of Cuba of 15 to 20 per cent. If the figures out to be correct, we shall have a year or two of very dear sugar.

ST. LOUIS MARKET, MARCH 12TH.—The St Louis Democrat, in its commercial article for Monday, says:

The week opens with a pretty active trade in Groceries and most articles of country produce. Dispatches from New Orleans showed more activity in sugar and molasses, and an advance took place in New York on coffee, which renders the market here rather firm. We hear of a sale of 200 bags prime coffee here, Saturday evening, at 12½c, though to-day 100 bags prime sold at 13c, and 100 bags fair at 12¾c. Molasses are doing about as last week, 50 bbls prime plantation selling at 44c. There seemed to be a good activity in groceries, both in the city and country trade to-day.

PROVISIONS—Holders are easy, particularly in mess pork, though buyers of bulk meat are not inclined to pay over 6 and 6¼, even for good heavy.

FLOUR was dull, country superfine, ranging from $5,70@5,75, while city brands are held firmly at $6.

TOLEDO, MARCH 12TH.—The wheat market was supplied on Saturday with about 2,000 bus, the quality of which was hardly as good as on other days. The market continued to be animated, and the high rates of the week were ready paid. For some lots, $1,44@1,45 was frequently paid, and in one instance $1,47½; for common and low grades $1,30@1,35; good to pure $1,-35@1,40. The average for the day's purchase was not less than $1,40 ⅌ bu. Spring wheat was more buoyant and sold at $1,06@1,07 for regular shipping; ordinary, 91 ⅌ bus. Oats more plentiful and moving freely at 35@-36 ⅌ bu. Barley 60@65c. Rye in good request, with but little coming in—worth from 65@70c. Peas better, but market not fully opened at 65@66c. Clover seed offered freely by farmers at $5,00 ⅌ bus; Timothy $3,50@4,00. Flour better and market unsettled. It is said $4,15 was refused for superfine, and prevailing figures on Saturday were from $4,15@5, although no sales transpired. Fancy $5@5,15. Extra is nominal at $5,00@5,75; double extra $6@6,50.—Globe.

ALBANY MARKET, MARCH 12.—The Albany Journal of Monday evening reports:

Flour and Meal—For Flour the demand for home consumption continues good, with an improved shipping inquiry at very full prices. Corn Meal is unchanged.

Grain—Wheat quiet and held above the views of buyers, with a fair supply offering. Corn is rather firmer, but the demand is not active. Sales 400 bushels round yellow at 72½. There is a little more inquiry for barley and lots in store command very good prices. Sales 3,700 bus two-rowed State at 72c and 15,000 bus Canada East on p. t., both in store. Oats quiet.

WHISKEY—Prices is held at 23½c. No sales.

DETROIT MARKET, MARCH 12TH.—Receipts at Detroit on Monday, were as follows:

	Flour, bbls.	Wheat, bu.	Corn, bu.	Oats, bu.
M. C. R. R.	354	321	558	409
D. & M.	150	...	...	113
D. A. T. R. R.	...	...	24	...
Total	494	321	582	521

The Tribune says:

Flour to-day is quiet at last quotations. Wheat is very firm. Buyers would be glad to close at 130c for extra white and 126c for prime red. About 4,000 bus red sold on private terms. Corn, oats and barley steady. Rye tends upward. A sale of 500 bus from store at 76c, the highest figure yet reached. Street prices 75@76c. Provisions quiet and steady. Butter dull at 10@12½c for Brkin and roll. Other articles unchanged.

BOOTS AND LEATHER MARKET.—The boot and shoe market has been active this week, although the bad weather has had an unfavorable effect. Light goods are selling freely and the demand for some kinds exceeds the supply. Manufacturers do not appear to have much confidence in prices being higher and are disposed to run their stocks very low; should the present active demand continue, with the small receipts, they will probably succeed in closing out their Spring stock. Heavy goods move slowly, buyers showing no disposition to purchase now goods that are not wanted until next season.

The leather market has been quiet during the week, light and sole leather bringing full prices and selling readily; middle and overweights dull.

If good advices and newspaper discussion can help any trade, the boot, shoe and leather trade is in a fair way to be soon in the former good way. The tanners way to be soon in the former good way. The tanners have issued a circular, calling a meeting of the fraternity in New York, to consider what is to be done in the present aspect of affairs. The committee issuing the circular think that all the trouble is "owing to an over importation of hides and manufactures of leather," and say that all that can save them is to diminish both. The New York Herald and some of the Democratic press, on the other hand, have discovered the whole cause of difficulty in the great falling off of Southern trade. We think, however, that the Boston dealers would add to these causes the almost entire cessation of Western trade. The general feeling in the trade here is, that Southern business has increased this season, and is fully up to that of former years; but the Western houses have bought very sparingly and are not all of them paying for those they bought last year.

Whatever may be the causes of the depression, it is evident that the only cure or relief is for all interested to curtail, run less and make fewer shoes, and in the course of time, the general demand, which cannot vary much—except that of course with the increase of population there must be a corresponding increase of demand,—will consume the surplus stock on hand. Then we shall have a good healthy business, and the more confidence is shown in it, the sooner the good time will come. The strike which is spreading is doing much to bring things out right, by compelling manufacturers to a course of curtailment which they have always unwillingly adopted on their own free will.—Boston Advertiser, March 10.

NO ICE FROM DETROIT TO PORT HURON.—The Detroit Tribune of Monday says:

The steamer Ruby, which cleared for Port Huron on Saturday, reached there without finding any ice.

The tug R. R. Elliott passed up from this city on Saturday, to Baby's Point, opposite Algonac.

RIVER NEWS.—The Chippewa Falls arrived at La Crosse on Monday, being the first arrival at that place this season.

ST. PAUL & ST. LOUIS PACKET COMPANY.—This company being a consolidation of the Northern Line and Galena Packet Company, have arranged their schedule of boats to run between St. Louis and St. Paul the coming season. The names of the boats comprising this line, are:

Hawk Eye State, new	Bunker State, new,
Dubuque,	Wm. L. Ewing,
Northern,	Pembina,
Metropolitan,	Northern Light,
Itasca,	War Eagle,
Gray Eagle,	Key City.

Making in all a line of twelve boats, which for elegance, speed and comfort, will not be excelled on either the Ohio or Missouri rivers. It will be noticed that two of the boats in the line, are just new.

THE GREAT GALE.—The gale of Sunday night was of terrific violence out upon the Lake, and all vessels exposed to it had a hard time of it. Several have since made their way in, and bear the marks of their hard encounter with the elements. The schooner Hirondelle, Capt. Jones, from Kalamazoo, had a narrow escape from foundering. The Sebastopol, for Sheboygan, was driven back, with her rigging the worse for the struggle. The little schooner Marguerite came in from St. Joseph, having suffered havoc in her rigging. The oldest marine inhabitant declares it was the direst gale he ever saw.—Chicago Press & Tribune of to-day.
